LET BARTSBOOKS ULTIMATE BUSINESS GUIDES PUBLISH

Authoring a book is a prestigious credential to add to your list of outstanding accomplishments. With the right balance of content and professional public relations assistance, individuals become authors, who become authorities in their specialty sought after by the media.

When a book is written with the purpose to share wisdom and experience, their authors are invited to speak as keynotes at tradeshows and conferences, and they are regularly featured in publications, and promoted in blogs and in the news.

It's just a fact

Companies that choose to have a book published on their business offering, authored by their leader-increase sales for their company, and when measured against their competition, close the business first because of the leverage of the perception and credibility that having a published book brings.

In addition, authors command higher speaking fees, the physical book becomes a new product for the company earning revenue, and the marketing and branding advantages of having a book far outweigh traditional advertising benefits.
